President's Update

Dear CDS Members, Past CDS Members & Friends:

We have only a little over a week before the call for papers is due for the Annual Conference of the Community Development Society. The meetings are scheduled for July 21-25, 2012 at the Kingsgate Marriott in Cincinnati, OH. The theme of the conference is Sustaining Community Through Innovation and Entrepreneurship. At this year's conference, we will be joined by Co-ops USA. This dynamic organization will share presentations and a track at the conference. It is expected that their contribution will tie beautifully with that of CDS members' research, outreach, and practice.

The ever changing world needs community development. The Community Development Society stands ready to fill a void left by shrinking budget cuts to services once covered by government programs, global political shifts, and global economic instability. As a member of the CDS, members stay abreast of the research and outreach activities and innovations through the journals, conferences, webinar series, and continued professional development opportunities.

We invite you to not only renew your membership and join us in Cincinnati for the 2012 conference, we encourage you to engage in the Principles of Good Practice the undergird all that CDS stands for and works towards. We urge you to become involved in your communities and to reach out to the underserved. Together, the members of CDS, its partnering organizations, and the communities that we serve can make a difference, not only today, but well into the future. We can do so by actively seeking equitably beneficial and sustainable solutions to local and global issues. We can find solutions to the social issue not by focusing on development to and for communities but with communities.

We encourage you to share what you have learned in your communities and through conference workshops, paper presentations, and poster presentations. In so doing, you can work to build your community and assist others in doing what they do better. Please contact Lori Landry at the CDS Business Office at 614-221-1900 ext. 227 or via email at lori@assnoffices.com or myself at 601-266-6519 or via email at brent.hales@usm.edu if you

CDS 2012 Conference Call for Abstracts
Deadline for submissions, October 31, 2011

More information and the call Click here to submit

The CDS annual conference focuses on ways to strengthen communities and provide a high quality of life for all residents. Community development, in both scholarship and practice, depends on an understanding of policies and practices that are effective in promoting local and regional areas. At this conference we will work towards defining sustainable community development, innovation and entrepreneurship. Sustainable community development refers to the processes that facilitate positive interaction between multiple sectors of the community to ensure that all residents of varied income levels are provided the opportunities and tools to build assets, to participate in their communities, and to become part of the mainstream economy. Innovation in community development refers not only to the new ideas being developed within community systems, but also the adoption process, speed, and performance of the innovative activity. Entrepreneurship speaks to the venturesome ideas which stimulate economic progress by finding new and better ways of doing things.

The learning tracks will provide opportunities to explore entrepreneurial and innovative ideas in depth from an urban, metropolitan and rural perspective.

The program agenda includes many issues and areas of community development practice such as:

- * Comprehensive Community Initiatives and Processes
- * Community Learning Centers
- * Community Cultural Arts
- * Healthy Communities
- * Community Engagement in Higher Education
- * Community Development Policy

For a description of each track, please review the full Call for Abstracts.

The image shows a brochure for the Community Development Society (CDS). It includes a 'Member Information' section with a table of membership rates for different categories: Corporate (Individual), Student, Household, and Youth. The table lists rates for 1 year, 2 years, and 3 years. Below the table is a 'MEMBERSHIP INFORMATION and APPLICATION' section. To the right, there is a section titled 'What is the Community Development Society (CDS)?' which describes the organization's mission and goals. Further right, there is a section titled 'CDS Principles of Good Practice' which lists five principles: 1. Promote active and representative participation, 2. Engage community members in learning about and understanding community issues, 3. Incorporate the diverse interests and cultures of the community, 4. Work actively to witness the leadership capacity of community members, leaders, and groups within the community, and 5. Be open to using the full range of action strategies to work toward the long-term sustainability and well-being of the community.
