

The Community Development Research and Practice Series

Series Editor: Rhonda Phillips

This series serves community developers, planners, public administrators and others involved in practice and policy making in the realm of community development. Building on a 40 year history of publishing the journal, Community Development: Journal of the Community Development Society, the book series seeks to contribute to the growing and rapidly changing knowledge base as a resource for practitioners and researchers alike.

Arts and Community Change: Exploring Cultural Development Policies, Practices and Dilemmas

Edited by Max O. Stephenson, Jr. and Scott Tate

Arts and Community Change: Exploring Cultural Development Policies, Practices and Dilemmas addresses the growing number of communities adopting arts and culture-based development methods to influence social change. Providing community workers and planners with strategies to develop arts policy that enriches communities and their residents, this collection critically examines the central tensions and complexities in arts policy, paying attention to issues of gentrification and stratification.

Social Capital at the Community Level

Edited by John Halstead and Steven C. Deller

In Social Capital at the Community Level, John Halstead and Steven Deller examine social capital formation beyond the individual level through a variety of disciplines: planning, economics, regional development, sociology, as well as non-traditional approaches like engineering and built environmental features.

Knowledge Partnering for Community Development

By Robyn Eversole

Effective community development means that many different stakeholders have to work together: governments, development organizations and NGOs, and most importantly, the people they serve. Knowledge Partnering for Community Development teaches community development professionals how to mediate community needs and development agendas to make community-based solutions for development challenges. October 2014 | 176 pages | PB: 978-1-13-802562-2 $59.95 | HB: 978-1-13-802561-5 $180.00

Schools and Urban Revitalization: Rethinking Institutions and Community Development

Edited by Kelly Patterson and Robert Mark Silverman

New research in community development shows that institutions matter. Where the private sector disinvests from the inner city, public and nonprofit institutions step in and provide engines to economic revitalization and promote greater equity in society. Schools and Urban Revitalization collects emerging research in this field, with special interest in new school-neighborhood partnerships that lead today's most vibrant policy responses to urban blight.

Theory, Practice, and Community Development:

Edited by Mark Brennan, Jeffrey Birdger and Theodore Alter

Expanded from a special issue of the journal Community Development, Theory, Practice, and Community Development collects previously published and widely cited essays, as well as new theoretical and empirical research in community development. Compiled by the editors of Community Development, the essays feature topics as varied as placemaking, democratic theory and rural organizing. Theory, Practice, and Community Development is vital for scholars and practitioners coming to grips with the rapidly changing definition of community.

Catalysts for Change: 21st Century Philanthropy and Community Development

Maria Martinez-Cosio and Mirlle Bussell

Catalysts for Change fills a gap in the literature on philanthropic organizations and how they intertwine with community development. Maria Martinez-Cosio and Mirlle Bussell use their own first hand experiences and research to forge a new path for academic research in an area where it has been lacking. Drawing first on the history of philanthropic funding, the authors look at developments in the last twenty years in detail, focussing on five key case studies from across America.

Community Visioning Programs: Processes and Outcomes

Edited by Norman Walzer and Gisele Hamm

Community visioning is key in helping local public officials and community leaders create a flourishing future for their cities, and is essential for the effective planning and implementation of these strategies. Visioning involves collaborative goal setting to motivate actions – of planners, citizens, and officials – in order to design and carry out a strategic planning process for the successful development of the community.
